Rental Coverage

Legislative changes in 1987 and 1988 require that persons renting from car rental companies will be covered by their personal automobile coverage for any damages or losses in regard to the vehicle for which the renter is responsible. This would include damage to tires, jacks, windshields, and other items not normally covered under the automobile insurance policy. The purpose of the changes was to remove any need for the renter to purchase a collision damage waiver or requiring coverage for everything that the renter would be responsible for. Insurers are required to provide coverage on that basis.
